Meeting high demands

Solid wood flooring is well suited for use in both commercial areas and private homes. This particularly sturdy flooring will withstand intensive wear for many years.

Optical illusion of length

The wooden flooring in this walk-in closet was laid using a free laying technique. Flooring, lighting, shelving and the organisation of the clothing storage system complement each other perfectly. Additional LED track lighting was integrated into the flooring for orientation. Getting dressed and undressed was never so much fun.

Even the spatial dimensions of the room can be altered visually depending on the lines of the parquet flooring.

Sturdy flooring

Entryways that have to hold up under demanding conditions, such as dirt and moisture are the ideal spots for multi-layer wooden flooring.

Most of these floors have a finished surface and can be used as early as the day after installation. Hotel lobbies are but one example of the abundant possibilities afforded by this kind of excellent wooden flooring.

Combining materials, such as wooden flooring with mirror glass tiling, creates a very special eye-catching effect.

Harmonious colours

We offer a wide selection of over 100 different varieties of wood, allowing us to match the furnishings perfectly to the flooring. Leather flooring is also often used as a decorative element.

The colour of the flooring continues seamlessly up the wooden stairs, creating the visual effect of elongated space.

Meeting every demand

Thanks to its two-centimetre thick wear layer, industrial wooden flooring is ideally suited to use in areas subject to extreme demands, be it shopping carts, strollers or simply high traffic.

Even tables, barstools, product consoles, racks or shelf constructions can do very little damage to this thick flooring.

Fine artisanship

A variety of star parquet flooring was installed for a 800 m² "bel étage" whose patterns were inspired by the parquetry in both the Globenmuseum and the Vienna Hofburg palace.

The inlay designs were inserted by hand in an elaborate process. The variations of hue in the wood make it the main visual element without overdoing it, giving each room its own unique and aristocratic flair.

Wood in every colour

The reason coloured wooden flooring is so popular these days is that the treatment and colouring processes make the wood very UV resistant. Coloured parquet flooring is like adding a layer of sunscreen to light-filled rooms.

A wide variety of colours are available to enhance the interior design of any room.

Upholding valued traditions

This cofferred flooring featuring aged varieties of wood was installed by our experts to underscore the elegant ambiance of the restaurant.

The wood is purchased from demolition sites and undergoes extensive treatment before the flooring is installed and the pores are sealed. This technique allows many such wooden floors to withstand the centuries.

Ageing gracefully

When developing “new” antique floorboards, a great deal of thought is given in advance to the ageing process the wood will likely undergo. The flooring is then prepared accordingly. After installation this kind of flooring creates an antique visual effect, giving the room a cosy, homey feel.

Like a vacation at home

Teak is a very sturdy wood and ideally suited for use outdoors, as proven by its use in building ships and footbridges over the centuries. Installing the outdoor wood in the same direction as the interior wooden flooring blurs the boundaries between comfort in the great outdoors and comfort in your own home. Thanks to our new seamless installation system, nothing will get lost in the cracks any more.

Service by experts

Sanding and refinishing wooden flooring requires absolute precision. Only the thinnest of coatings can be applied to prevent damage to the flooring and allow it to be refinished later on if necessary. This is definitely a job for wooden flooring experts.

Painstaking detail work

When renovating parquet flooring you frequently come across small parts of the flooring that have come out, become loose or need reworking in order to be refitted into their original space. Wooden elements have to be fashioned by hand and re-laid by eye.

This is artisnary that our parquet flooring professionals have mastered.

Strict form

Ensuring that the line of the wood grain is continuous over the entire length of the staircase is a rare sight. The wood was cut from a single tree trunk selected particularly for this special purpose in order to achieve this unique visual effect.

“Stairway to heaven”

The combination of wooden tread overlays and the washable coat of paint on the risers create a floating effect. The stairway to heaven conveys an incomparable lightness that blends in harmoniously with the room's ambiance.

Exquisite wood

We offer jumbo planks measuring up to 15 metres in length and up to 80 cm in width. Wood of this size is in high demand and has been available for years on international timber markets. Jumbo planks are ideally suited for underpinning the perception of space in a generously proportioned room.

Cutting the wooden flooring in a curved pattern along the natural grain of the wood, for example, creates a very special visual effect.
